THE LAW'S DELAY IN NEW YORK

IT TAKES NEARLY THREE YEARS TO GET A CASE TO TRIAL.

Supreme Court Failing: Behind at the Rate of 350 Cases a Year—About 2,500 Cases Now on the Calendar—No Remedy in Sight for a Year or So at Least.

The congested condition of the business of the New York city courts has prompted Andrew Byrne, an attorney representing a few of the 1,500 people whose cases are awaiting trial, to write to THE SUN, calling the attention of the Legislature and the public to the need of immediate legislation for relief. He says:

"Justice delayed, said Gladstone, is justice denied. One who seeks justice before a judge or jury in the Supreme Court in New York must keep knocking at the court house door for nearly three months, and in New York county he will knock in vain for almost three years."

The Supreme Court is awaiting trial in the Trial Term of the Supreme Court, New York county, on Oct. 1, 1902, and there are more cases on the calendar than there were there the year before. There are also thousands of cases awaiting trial in the Trial Term of the Supreme Court, Kings county.

This delay practically deprives thousands of the rights of justice. It is a hindrance, possibly, to the progress of the State, and a hindrance to the progress of the Nation. Several attorneys invoked the aid of the Governor last year, and, as a result, a bill was passed authorizing him to appoint a commission to inquire into the delay in the administration of justice in New York city and in the counties and to suggest legislation. A commission was appointed and held two meetings last December.

The intolerable delay in our courts is due to the fact that the calendar is too large. The city of New York, with about half the population, more than half the business and at least 10,000 of the 10,000 practicing lawyers of the State, has but seventy judges of courts of record and courts not of record. The rest of the State has about 2,000 judges with civil jurisdiction, 170 of whom are judges of courts of record, and the remainder are Justices of the Peace.

The commission was to report to the Legislature last December. Its time to do so has been extended to January, 1903, and it is, therefore, unlikely that any of its recommendations will go into effect before the end of that year. In the meantime the cases will continue to accumulate, and the Legislature takes some action during the present session, the calendar will be even larger than it is now.

"The fact is a pretty correct statement of the situation," said J. L. Lyon, a clerk of the Supreme Court for the First Judicial District, when the lawyer's letter was shown to him. "There are about 3,500 jury cases on the calendar now, which is a slight increase since October. It is absolutely hopeless to expect a case which is put on the calendar at this time to get to trial under two and a half years, unless it is a preferred case. The suits coming to trial now were put on the calendar in January, 1901."

"Since the courts were consolidated, in 1896, the congestion has gradually grown worse. There are now about 2,500 cases awaiting trial when the consolidation took place, and we have been running behind at an average rate of about 250 cases each year since then. The whole trouble lies in the fact that there are not enough Justices to go around."

Clerk Lyon said that the proposed Davis constitutional amendment, now before the Legislature, which provides for a graded increase in the number of Supreme Court Justices in the New York City, Buffalo and Albany districts, would, if adopted, afford the needed relief. This act, he said, would give the New York district at least five additional Justices. The bill was passed by the Legislature and, if passed again at the present session, will be submitted to the people in 1901.

A FIRE IN THE ARCTIC.

Hugh Lee Comes Near Losing His Home in North Alaska.

Hugh J. Lee of Meriden, Conn., one of Peary's two comrades on his second trip across the Greenland ice cap to Independence Bay, has just spent his second winter at Cape Prince of Wales, Alaska. Some of the letters he sends home are printed in the Meriden Journal. He was recently appointed United States Commissioner for the Cape Prince of Wales district.

The day after last Thanksgiving his family came near being turned out of doors into cold weather by a fire. He was half a mile from home at the schoolhouse, in which Esquimaux boys and girls are learning to read, when a blanket near a stove in his bedroom caught fire. The fire spread to a cask of water and a precaution, and when Mrs. Lee discovered the blaze she called an Esquimaux boy, who emptied the water into the burning room, but the quantity was too small to do much good.

Meanwhile Mrs. Lee had sent a native girl for her husband, and with other natives began carrying furniture and what provisions she could reach out of the house. Most of the supplies for the winter were in the attic, which was so full of smoke that she could not get into it.

The Esquimaux boy went out of doors, broke in the bedroom window and began to shovel snow into the room. Meanwhile the native girl succeeded in attracting Lee's attention and he started on a dead run for his house.

He found that most of the fire was in a partition, which he pulled to pieces with a miner's pickaxe, while the Esquimaux stood ready with big lumps of snow to put out the flames as fast as he exposed them. The bedclothing and nearly the entire wardrobe of Mr. and Mrs. Lee were destroyed as well as many garments belonging to the children. Within a few days the room and the furnishings were repaired.

When Lee was a reporter he was accustomed to hustling to fires; but he says the hottest run he ever had was for his house on the day he saw volumes of smoke rising while all his winter supplies were in the attic and the shelter of his wife and two children seemed likely to be laid in ashes with the temperature out of doors far below zero.

The fire at least demonstrated the friendliness of the natives, who offered every service they thought would be helpful, and made the Lee family comfortable in a native house for a few days until their own home was repaired. If the winter supplies had been destroyed they could have been replaced only at Teller or Nome at exorbitant prices.

The only whites living in the village are Mr. and Mrs. Lee and their family and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard, who are teaching in the school. Their way of life is one of astonishment and admiration among the natives. Some of them have decided to live in houses like those of the white men.

One young man, who owns nearly 200 reindeer, worth about $5,000, has ordered lumber for a house 30 by 20 feet, which will contain six rooms. Two frame houses have already been built by men who before the whites came among them lived in dugouts lined with driftwood.

Mrs. Lee says the Esquimaux are taller than those of Greenland, Labrador or Hudson Bay and are more advanced in civilization than the famous Smith Sound natives of north Greenland though inferior in culture to those of South Greenland, where the Danes have long wielded large influence.

Cape Prince of Wales is likely to be quite an important place, especially if it develops profitable mineral resources. The reported discovery of tin there induced a number of miners last fall to go north from Nome and take out claims. It is not yet known whether the prospects are very favorable but if they prove to be valuable finds the region around

The little Esquimaux village will witness the incoming of many white men.

Thus far the isolation of Cape Prince of Wales has been a serious drawback.

At Nome, 125 miles away, Lee was suddenly attacked with a violent toothache.

After suffering for several days he decided that he could not endure the pain longer and so took his forepaws to the house of Oksak, the chief of the village, who said he would pull the tooth. The chief told the sufferer to lie down on the floor of the igloo (house). The native got down on his knees straddling the patient's chest. Another fellow held Lee's head to the floor and a third native illuminated the operation with a lantern.

Lee had told the amateur dentist that he must first jerk the tooth sideways to loosen it before pulling straight out. But he omitted the loosening process and pulled the tooth with might and main but failed to budge the tooth.

Then he stopped for breath and Lee sat up and explained to him again how the operation was to be performed. Then he reclined on the floor again and in a few minutes the molar was extracted and is now carried by the Esquimaux as a souvenir of his skill.

BY THE TOWN OF A CENT.

Kansas Tries a New Way of Deciding on Appointments of Methodist Preachers.

Topeka, Kan., April 18.—Kansas Methodists have evolved a new method of settling the vexed question of who shall be pastor, and as a result Topeka is to have the services of the Rev. John MacLean, a preacher of ability and eloquence. The story, as told by a preacher just home from the Fort Scott Conference, is that the town of a cent decided the question.

Under the rules of the Methodist Church all the appointments and assignments of preachers are made by the Bishop. He has jurisdiction over several Conferences, in each of which several hundred preachers are to be stationed. Naturally he is unable to know the local conditions in each town.

The result is that he must depend largely on what he can learn from local members. In the larger churches the selection of a preacher is usually made by the board of trustees. Unless the Bishop has some unusual reason for deciding otherwise his choice is usually final. Not long ago the trustees of a city not far from here, where Mr. MacLean had preached several times, met to decide whether to call him or another man. Half the members wanted Mr. MacLean to be placed in charge. The other half wanted the man who is now in charge. They argued and debated the question for several hours, but each ballot was just the same.

One of the trustees finally proposed that they toss a coin to decide the question. One old gentleman was inclined to demur, but the others were tired of the wrangle and readily agreed.

The coin was tossed up in the air with the understanding that if it lit head up they would ask for the man now in charge. It did lit with the head up. The trustees stayed by their agreement, asked for the man accordingly and the Bishop read him the appointment in a sonorous voice. So far both selections have proved good ones.

Hosiery: Our Greatest Spring Sale.

Men, Women and Children May Share the Bargains.

SPRING Hosiery, the stock of perhaps the greatest hosiery house in this country. Spring orders are filled and little lots—very often of the handsomest styles—remain. Perhaps one dozen, perhaps three dozen of a kind. An immense stock altogether, and a fine stock, too, yet one the importers were glad to sell us for

A Half or Near Half Under the Regular Pricing.

Ready for you to-morrow at the same saving. Not a hodge podge lot of Hosiery in bundles, mind you. These are packed neatly in the regular boxes. They are perfect, fine and new. They are as excellent and there is as fine assortment as though you were paying regular prices, except that all sizes may or may not be had in each pattern.

It is the most extraordinary occasion we ever had to tell about, just when the coming of Spring makes low shoes and dainty stockings a necessity. Now to the details.

Women's Tailored Wear. A Group of Great Values.

FRESH, smart styles—the widest choice and the best choice in town is here. See how they are made—how the sleeves are put in, how the stitching is done. Note the character of the tailoring. We have spent plenty of time getting these Suits and Coats as fine as they are and we want you to know about it. Prices? Every possible saving that could be made without hurting the quality of the wear. Prices are the lowest anywhere. Hints: Tailored Suits at $22.50. A splendidly stylish group. Light mixtures in tweeds, canvas, homespun and wool crash. Reversible front and collarless blouse jackets lined with taffeta. Skirts, pleated and kilt effects. Unlined. Prices have been $24.75, $27.50 up to $34.75. Now $22.50. Tailored Suits at $24.75. Black and navy blue velvet. Collarless blouse jacket with taffeta trimming, across shoulders and down front, edged with fancy braid and finished with crocheted buttons. Full sleeve, puff at hand. Position back. Skirt is 9 yards long. Entire suit taffeta silk lined, drop petticoat in skirt. Silk jackets at $4.95. Blouse jackets of taffeta silk, collarless, trimmed with black braid and drop ornaments, full sleeve with turn cuff, lined with silk. Main Coats at $9.95. Or Oxford gray, brown and tan Venetian, rain proof, fly front, full back with belt, pleated sleeve with turn cuff. Main Coats, $14.95. Or Oxford gray and tan "Craven" light, light, with single cape, full belted back, full sleeve, turn cuff. Tan Corded Jackets, $7.50. 20 inch fly front, stitched seams, lined with satin or taffeta, second floor, front, Central Building.

Men's Spring Suits—$7.95. Third to Near Half Under Price. The Season's Greatest Sale.

GREATEST in values—not in volume, for there are only a hundred Suits to reward the men who come most promptly to-morrow. But such Suits were never sold before at such prices at a season's beginning. Found a maker the other day a bit "long" on popular priced Suits and very much disgruntled at the weather. So we picked from his stock some of the choicest patterns and colorings shown this season and bought the Suits at our own price. They are excellently made—$12.50 to $15.00 would be fair price for them anywhere. Some of the identical fabrics are selling to-day at $15.00. The cloths are choice cassimeres, undressed and fancy worsteds in medium ray to dark colorings. Style is a handsome four-button sack, the trimmings excellent, the tailoring smart and serviceable. Sizes for regular or stout men. A splendid bargain at $7.95 a Suit. Second floor, rear, Central Building.

White Goods That Are Wanted. PRETTY nearly all sorts of White Goods are wanted this season. There will be more women in white next Summer than anybody ever saw before. But the fabrics that are in greatest demand—and beauties they are—are here for much less than the regular prices. Fine sheer Lawns, satin stripe with lace effect, 15c. quality, at 10c. a yard. 20c. to 29c. White Fabrics at 15c. Fine quality corded Batiste. Lac stripe dotted Lawns. Mercerized Jacquard stripe Grenadine. Novelty mercerized and lace stripe Lawns. New mercerized Chevilles, in the damme and fine weave, 10c. a yd. Fine sheer India Linon, 40 inches wide, 12c. a yd. Imported Pique, superior quality; one cord only, value 40c. a yd. Remnants of fine Lawns, Batistes, Madras, Chevilles and Oxforda at about one-half price. Main floor, rear, East Building.

Milinery: Best News Yet. WOMEN have come to know that the best varieties of the new styles are here—the Millinery Store is crowded every day, no matter what the weather. But we have made extra preparations for to-morrow—never at the season's beginning did we have such an assemblage of beautiful Hats for so little cost: $1.75 Untrimmed Eurnt Straw Hats, $1.39. Of very fine brads, this season's most correct colors; turban and walking hats; shades; blue, poppy, and geranium flowers with velvet ribbon combined, make these very stylish trimmed Hats, regularly $1.75, here at $1.39. $2.50 to $2.75 Dress Hats, $1.89. From our best maker and exclusive here. Of chiffon, chiffon and straw and chifon and imitation hair brads. Shades are so designed with fullness of material as to require but a very little trimming to complete them; the least prices for such Hats as these anywhere outside this Store would be $2.50 to $2.75, to-morrow at $1.89. Women's & Misses' 98c. to $1.35 Untrimmed Hats, 69c. To make more room for our ready-to-wear Hats, we have taken out from our regular stock many untrimmed Hats that manufacturers are unable to duplicate, being unable to secure more of these particular brads; they have been selling at 95c. to $1.35, not sent C. O. D., now at $1.35. Main floor, rear, East Building.

Girls' Sailor Suits—$3.98 $5.00 to $7.00 Values. MAKER had accumulated a number of small lots of fine Sailor Suits and we took them all—at a lowered price. Will you share the good luck? They are made of excellent chevilles, in blue, red and brown. Handsomely trimmed with contrasting colors and fancy braids. Full skirts, deep hems and shield attached to skirt. As smart and stylish Sailor Suits as can be found full priced anywhere for girls of 6 to 10 years. All at $3.98 to-morrow. Second floor, rear, Central Building.

Women's Spring Oxfords. More $3 Values for $1.85. GAVE the maker carte blanc he to turn out just as many of these handsome Oxfords as he could at the price—and gave him his own time to do it. Else we should never have had any such Oxfords for $1.85 a pair. Made of velvet calf or dry tannage that will take a high polish; heavy single soles of oak tannage. A handsome spring shape that is easy fitting as well as stylish. Oxforda for good practical use and long wear; sizes 2 1/2 to 7 1/2; A to E widths; full $3.00 value, at $1.85. Second floor, rear, West Building.

Fine Cotton Dress Goods. Bargains to Make a Busy Day. COUNTED ourselves lucky enough to get fifty-one thousand yards of fine quality staple Cotton Dress Goods to sell so much under price—the way they have been flying out is a sure sign of what women think about them, too. Very early in the season to be talking about cut prices on Cottons—and such Cottons as these: 12 1/2c. to 20c. Woven Madras—9c. 32 inches wide, that's 4 inches more than the average Madras. There is immense variety of stripe patterns and they will hold their color perfectly in the wash. All made with fine, firm cords and 12 1/2c. to 20c. value, at 9c. a yard. 12 1/2c. Percaloes at 8c. Yard wide, the standard 12 1/2c. value all over the country. They are in white, with neat figures and stripes, and also in tinted grounds. The smallest price they have ever cost so far as we can remember. 8c. a yard. Main floor, West Building.

Garden & Household Needs. MAKING the Garden yet? It is full time if you would get the biggest reward in bloom and beauty later. The Basement Store is ready to help with the tools and seeds that are wanted—The best sorts for the smallest cost.

Garden and Lawn Needs. Malicious Garden Rakes, 1.50. "Ages" wood Lawn Rakes, 4.90. Cast Steel Garden Rakes, $1.40. Long Steel Garden Trowels, 9c. and 18c. Long handled Garden Weeds, 1.30.
